"Tulsa, the congenial convention city of the southwest."

This slogan was adopted by the Chamber of Commerce committee on conventions and receptions in a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce room Thursday afternoon. At that time the committee determinedly decided to bring to Tulsa every national, state and district convention, regardless of its apparent importance or size, extending invitations through every recognized channel that will influence them in selecting this city.

Within the next few days a statement will be made by the committee and sent to local business officers and delegations of virtually every organization represented here.

Sets Forth Advantages.

This statement will set forth Tulsa's advantages as a convention city:

KEEP THIS AD—GOOD FOR FRIDAY, SATURDAY AND MONDAY

it will explain to business men the distinct advantages of conventions in demonstrating Tulsa's hospitality and professional men and women enjoy the highest types of business and professional men and women who more or less greatly impressed with the city characteristics may decide to invest or locate here, bringing with them many business organizations. It will point out that every convention, no matter what its size, always means the expenditure of more money with local business concerns.

According to J. Burr Gibbons, chairman of the committee, hotel, restaurants, transportation companies and managers of amusement places have offered to give their complete co-operation to the committee, and have given positive assurance that they will participate in no effort to "gong" the visitors—that they will perform every service required of them in making convention visitors feel entirely at home so they will leave proclaiming the hospitality and unusual entertainment ability of the Wonder City.

Makes Tulsa Attractive.

"This movement is to extend even further conventions," Gibbons declared Thursday after the committee meeting. "While we expect to bring here business, political, educational, military and religious conventions, we also expect to bring to Tulsa individual and outstanding men and women connected with these various activities. If a nationally national character is to visit or pass through some other point in Oklahoma, we expect if possible to bring him or her to Tulsa for at least a day and not only provide Tulsa an opportunity to see and meet such characters but also to show the visitors how much entertainment and hospitality Tulsa can extend to them in the limited time they are here.

"Until the war, Tulsa was known far and wide as the convention city of Oklahoma. During the war, however, we were so occupied with activities that this phase of Tulsa's life was neglected. The Chamber of Commerce through this committee expects to revive the old convention spirit and make Tulsa the hangout convention city of the southwest. At one time seven years ago, when G. N. Wright was president of the Chamber of Commerce, the chairman of the convention committee we extended invitations to 17 different organizations to hold their conventions here. Fifteen of them did come to Tulsa, and two of these were of national importance."

Conventions Necessary.

The advertising value of conventions to the city has been estimated at $100,000 annually. This sum is pointed out. "There is hardly an organization of any consequence today that does not publish an official organ in which publicity is given to its varied activities. Every convention or meeting of the entire body or of a division is given much space in such publications, and the name of the convention city is predominant."

The committee on conventions and receptions is men and women from virtually all walks in life. This variety, which consequently makes the committee a large one, is to assure the proper entertainment of visitors in any line of profession. On the committee are military men, grocers, bakers, merchants, hotel managers and those in virtually all other lines.

Strong Committee.

Besides Chairman Gibbons, those on the committee are Mayor T. D. Evans, L. G. Long, Ralph Talbot, Arlie J. Crisp, W. Bishop, T. L. Brown, John Brown, Charles Burton, Harry J. Scott, Floyd Shields, W. F. Stahl, E. W. Thornton, Ellis H. Wiet, W. W. White, Dr. Peter Cope White and W. M. Wilson.

The committee expects to lend its active assistance to any individual or committee that wishes help in bringing to Tulsa a convention in which he is particularly interested. Printed matter concerning Tulsa, its growth and its advantages as a convention city is soon to be ready for distribution, Gibbons stated.

MRS. TYLER QUITS K. K. K.

Announcement of Her Resignation Is First Rift in Empire's Ranks.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 5.—The first rift in the ranks of the Ku-Klux Klan among officers who have been lately subjected to severe attack and criticism, appeared today with the announcement that Mrs. Elizabeth Tyler had resigned from the propaganda department. Mrs. Tyler, who has been associated with Edward Young Clarke, Imperial kludge, in spreading the Klan's publicity, was ill health of her daughter, Mrs. Doris Manning Jett, and her own ill health as the reasons for her resignation.

Clarke said he would accept Mrs. Tyler's resignation. Mrs. Tyler, of course, never had been a member of the Klan, so that her resignation from the propaganda department entirely severs her from the organization.
